PURPOSE OF THE BILL

The purpose of H.R. 3853 is to make technical corrections to laws passed by the 106th Congress related to parks and public lands, and for other purposes.

BACKGROUND AND NEED FOR LEGISLATION

On a regular basis, the National Park Service (NPS) will submit to the National Parks, Recreation, and Public Lands Subcommittee a list of technical changes necessary to correct bills that have recently become law. H.R. 3853 reflects technical changes requested by the Administration for bills approved during the 106th Congress as well as a request to extend the General Services Administration contract airfares to employees of foundations established by Congress to solicit private sector funds on behalf of federal land managers. In addition, the bill extends the grace period for continued personal watercraft (PWC) use in certain parks of the National Park System for up to two years to allow the NPS to complete 21 Environmental Assessments to determine if PWC use should continue.

COMMITTEE ACTION

H.R. 3853 was introduced on March 5, 2002, by Congressman George Radanovich (R–CA). The bill was referred to the Committee on Resources, and within the Committee to the Subcommittee on National Parks, Recreation, and Public Lands. On March 7, 2002, the Subcommittee met to mark up the bill. Congressman Rush Holt (D–NJ) offered an amendment to strike section 10 (relating to PWCs) from the bill. It was not adopted by a rollcall vote of 7 to 10 as follows:

COMMITTEE OVERSIGHT FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Regarding clause 2(b)(1) of rule X and clause 3(c)(1) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives, the Committee on Resources' oversight findings and recommendations are reflected in the body of this report.

CONSTITUTIONAL AUTHORITY STATEMENT

Article I, section 8 of the Constitution of the United States grants Congress the authority to enact this bill.

COMPLIANCE WITH HOUSE RULE XIII

1. Cost of Legislation. Clause 3(d)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives requires an estimate and a comparison by the Committee of the costs which would be incurred in carrying out this bill. However, clause 3(d)(3)(B) of that rule provides that this requirement does not apply when the Committee has included in its report a timely submitted cost estimate of the bill prepared by the Director of the Congressional Budget Office under section 402 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974.

2. Congressional Budget Act. As required by clause 3(c)(2) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 308(a) of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, this bill does not contain any new budget authority, spending authority, credit authority, or an increase or decrease in revenues or tax expenditures.

3. General Performance Goals and Objectives. This bill does not authorize funding and therefore, clause 3(c)(4) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives does not apply.

4. Congressional Budget Office Cost Estimate. Under clause 3(c)(3) of rule XIII of the Rules of the House of Representatives and section 403 of the Congressional Budget Act of 1974, the Committee has received the following cost estimate for this bill from the Director of the Congressional Budget Office:

U.S. CONGRESS,
CONGRESSIONAL BUDGET OFFICE,
Washington, DC, April 1, 2002.

Hon. JAMES V. HANSEN,
*Chairman, Committee on Resources,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.*

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: The Congressional Budget Office has prepared the enclosed cost estimate for H.R. 3853, a bill to make technical corrections to laws passed by the 106th Congress related to parks and public lands.

If you wish further details on this estimate, we will be pleased to provide them. The CBO staff contact is Megan Carroll.

Sincerely,

BARRY B. ANDERSON
(For Dan L. Crippen, Director).

Enclosure.

H.R. 3853—A bill to make technical corrections to laws passed by the 106th Congress related to parks and public lands

CBO estimates that enacting H.R. 3853 would have no significant impact on the federal budget. The bill would not affect direct spending or receipts; therefore, pay-as-you-go procedures would not apply. H.R. 3853 contains no intergovernmental or private-sector mandates as defined in the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act and would have no significant impact on the budgets of state, local, or tribal governments.

H.R. 3853 would amend several laws related to national parks and public lands. Most of these amendments would correct spelling and punctuation errors or make other nonsubstantive changes in the original laws. One provision would delay until December 31, 2004, the implementation of a ban on the use of personal watercraft in certain national parks. Under current law, unless special regulations are issued to allow those parks to allow continued use of personal watercraft, the ban would start to take effect in April 2002. Based on information from the Department of the Interior, CBO estimates that none of the bill's provisions would significantly affect federal spending.

The CBO staff contact for this estimate is Megan Carroll. This estimate was approved by Peter H. Fontaine, Deputy Assistant Director for Budget Analysis.

COMPLIANCE WITH PUBLIC LAW 104-4

This bill contains no unfunded mandates.

PREEMPTION OF STATE, LOCAL OR TRIBAL LAW

This bill is not intended to preempt any State, local or tribal law.

DISSENTING VIEWS

We oppose H.R. 3853. While eleven of the bill's twelve sections are noncontroversial, and therefore legitimate, technical corrections to existing statutes, section ten would overturn a federal court order governing the use of personal watercraft (PWCs) in our national parks. The inclusion of this section in an alleged "technical" corrections bill, without a single public hearing, is an abuse of the legislative process and, if enacted, would constitute an abuse of the judicial process. As a result, we urge our colleagues to join us in opposing this measure.

The first sign that section ten should not be included among a collection of simple technical corrections is the complicated and divisive history of the issue with which it deals. While we will not relate the details here (see: Stipulated Settlement Agreement, Memorandum and Order, Blue Water Network, et al. v. Robert Stanton, et al., 00CV02093 (GK), United States District Court for the District of Columbia, April 11, 2001), the salient fact is that National Park Service (NPS) policy regarding the use of PWCs in the National Park system is no longer dictated by agency regulations. Rather, the current policy is the result of a federal court order ratifying a consent decree entered into by the National Park Service in order to settle litigation.

That litigation followed more than ten years of heated public policy debate and agency study of the resource impacts of personal watercraft. The judicial decision regarding PWCs in the National Parks considered the basic meaning of the National Park Service Organic Act and the fundamental mission of the National Park Service. Congressional involvement in such a critical policy determination should be measured, judicious and public. A provision simply resolving the issue in favor of the PWC industry, buried in a supposedly "technical" corrections bill, without public hearings, fails on every count.

Should the Congress approve H.R. 3853, the result would be an abuse of the judicial process, as well. Congressional action to effectively overturn an existing federal court order and consent decree is highly unusual. In this instance, Congress would be taking such action for the benefit of an industry lobbying organization, the Personal WaterCraft Industry Association (PWIA), which was not a party to the litigation and to the detriment of the plaintiff in the suit, Blue Water Network. Neither the PWIA nor NPS, also known as the defendant in this case, have approached the Court seeking to alter the terms of the existing order. Rather, they have pursued a legislated "Get Out of Your Consent Decree Free" card.

On the merits, the principal justification given for such Congressional intervention is unconvincing. Under the original NPS rule and the existing federal court order, PWC use is banned in all units of the National Park System. However, twenty-one units where PWC use was most prevalent have been granted a two-year grace period, during which such use may continue. Further, the order creates a special rule-making process whereby, should the National Park Service elect to do so, PWC use may be permanently authorized in any of those twenty-one units.

The Majority argues that this legislation is necessary because the NPS will not complete the special rule-making within the grace period, meaning that the ban will take full effect for some period of time. They claim that such an outcome is contrary to the Court's intent and is a possibility only because the previous Administration failed to request adequate funding to complete the rule-making process during the grace period.

However, the alleged requirement that any special rule-making undertaken by the NPS be completed within the grace period is never mentioned in the original NPS rule, the Court's discussion of this case, nor in any of its rulings. Given that the initiation of a rule making to allow permanent PWC use in any of the twenty-one units is optional, it is certainly not the case that the work must be completed by a date certain. That the Federal District Court intended such a requirement, but neglected to include it in the order, strains credulity. Furthermore, the current Administration took office in January of 2001 but waited more than nine months before requesting additional funding for this rule-making process. Responsibility for any funding shortfalls lies squarely with the current Administration.

Once these flimsy justifications are dispensed with, the real purpose of this legislation becomes evident. Passage of this measure is more than a simple case of altering a date to allow an agency to complete its work. Rather, the PWC industry is seeking legislation to provide them a benefit not included in the consent decree: uninterrupted PWC access in these twenty-one areas. H.R. 3853 proposes to grant the industry this benefit despite the fact that to do so vandalizes an existing court order, undermines a legitimate plaintiff without judicial process and awards the PWC industry a victory in a decade-old public policy dispute.

All this without a single public hearing. H.R. 3853 should be defeated.
